

Supplementary material for: Vogel E.F., Rikardsen A.H., Blanchet M.-A., Blévin P. & Biuw M. 2024. Norwegian killer whale movements reflect their different prey types. Polar Research 43. Correspondence: Emma F. Vogel, UiT – The Arctic University of Norway, Faculty of Biosciences, Fisheries and Economics, NO-9037 Tromsø, Norway. E-mail: emma.vogel@uit.no

Supplementary Fig. S1. The reconstructed full paths of all eight whales included in the study, from October through April. Unique individual whale identifications are at the top of each map. The two seal-eaters are 182231 (upper right panel) and 220657 (centre panel).